for the

Kanematsu/Novo Nordisk Research Award 2012

The Kanematsu Fund is pleased to announce that Novo Nordisk has joined with the fund to offer a research award aimed at the Young Investigator

Recent Fellows (5 years or less standing), Trainees of the College, and Senior Scientists holding a PhD from any haematology department or unit within Australia or New Zealand are encouraged to apply.

The Award of $50,000 will be granted for a single medical research project into haematological disorders relating to thrombosis and/or haemostasis. The winning application will be determined by an expert committee of College Fellows convened by the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Kanematsu Fund.

General administration is handled by the College and the Award will be presented at the RCPA Annual Admission of New Fellows and Awards Ceremony at Pathology Update in Sydney in March 2012.

The explanatory notes and application form should be read carefully prior to application.

The explanatory notes and application form are now available from the RCPA website under Awards and Scholarships – or contact Elsa Genovese on (02) 8356 5807
